

Wolfie the Wolf-eel

The Adventures of an Undersea Creature

Written and Illustrated by Jacqueline Vickery Stanley

FOREWORD BY STAN WATERMAN

Wolfie the Wolf-eel starts life in an aquarium wondering about the odd creatures that have no gills on the other side of the glass. Released into the Pacific Ocean, Wolfie discovers a lot about real life as a wolf-eel, including the joys of sea-urchin snacks and the problems of moving into an octopus hole. This is a story with action, adventure, romance and accurate science about uniquely Pacific Northwest sea creatures.

PUBLICITY

- Booked for numerous presentations at schools during National Children's Book Week throughout Washington State
- Author prepared to do readings, presentations, and show personal underwater videos
- Large, full-colour covers available for display

"Our teacher read us your book. I've never heard of Wolf-eels. I like your illustrations. Your book is cool! I liked it when you visited our school because I have never met an author. It was fun learning about the sea."

— Danny, Eagleridge Elementary School, Ferndale, WA

UPCOMING TITLE

Wolfie Goes Hunting and Saves His Friends: More Adventures of Wolfie the Wolf-eel

CHILDREN'S FICTION / MARINE BIOLOGY

Hard Cover / 8.5" x 11" / 40 pages

Juvenile (5-10) / Colour illustrations throughout

Peanut Butter Publishing

ISBN 0-89716-828-3 / $18.95 US / $23.95 CDN

“

*You may buy this for your nephews
or nieces, but you may end up keeping this gorgeously illustrated book for yourself.*

”

Asia Diving Magazine